

When Providing Peer Feedback

Tips	Reason for Tips
Do not deduct points, or worse, assign 0 points, simply because you disagree with someone's response.	Please focus on content. A correct rationale for something that you disagree with is a completely acceptable answer.
Before you grade a response that severely lacks detail/explanation please post a comment under the post.	This is the chance for the respondent to explain their stand.
Don't criticize grammar.	If you struggle to understand the context of a response, then simply post a comment seeking clarification.
Double check the grades you assigned to ensure they are fair and, just as important, that you didn't make any grading errors.	Anyone could make a calculation mistake.

When Submitting an Individual Response

1. Fully read the response and answer all of the questions. Some tasks have multiple questions - answer each one of them
2. Do some research and use that research to support your thoughts and ideas.
3. If you receive a failing score, or if your score is lower than what you expected, you can re-submit your assignment; however, you must keep in mind the following: 1) Re-submitting your assignment will reset your score 2) You will need 3 additional peer reviews to obtain your new score 3) You must ensure that all of your assignments have at least the minimum passing score

Plagiarism

Plagiarizing does nothing to help you with the learning process and it doesn't benefit your peers either. Plagiarism is lazy and unethical. Don't do it.

Although from Purdue the following link will help you understand more about it :

<https://owl.english.purdue.edu/owl/resource/589/01/>

Find more information on Feedback:

Giving and Receiving Peer Feedback: <http://www.uts.edu.au/sites/default/files/Giving-and-Receiving-Feedback.pdf>